THE CAPTURE OF AGUIALDO.

Gen. Funston's Detailed Report Given Out by the War Department.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Gen. Funston's detailed report to the Secretary of War on the capture of Aguinaldo was made public at the War Department this afternoon. Gen. Funston gives full credit to Lieut. J. D. Taylor of the Twenty-fourth Infantry for having secured the information as to Aguinaldo's whereabouts from a native who had been a member of the Philippine leader to insurgent officers, and says that these letters suggested to him the plan for the capture of Aguinaldo, which was afterward successfully carried out.

The details of the voyage from Manila to Cebu, the landing of the party and the march to Patanan, have already been published. Of Lieut.-Col. Placido and the details of the capture of Aguinaldo, Gen. Funston says: "Although Placido was the supposed commanding officer of the insurgent force, the man on whom I most depended to bookkeep the force—President and other people of Calapan were the ones who were to be secured. From time to time I sent for him, and he would come to me and give me instructions as to the progress of the force. He was a man of courage and resource, and his knowledge of the Philippines and of the Tulaño Placido was absolutely loyal to me, he did not have the ingenuity and resource of the other officers of the force."

Of what occurred after the arrival at Patanan, Gen. Funston says: "The capture of Aguinaldo was a matter of time. The force was divided into two columns, one to go to the river and the other to go to the mountains. The force that went to the river was the one that captured Aguinaldo. The force that went to the mountains was the one that captured the other officers of the force. The capture of Aguinaldo was a matter of time. The force was divided into two columns, one to go to the river and the other to go to the mountains. The force that went to the river was the one that captured Aguinaldo. The force that went to the mountains was the one that captured the other officers of the force."

Gen. Funston then relates the story of the capture of Aguinaldo. He says that the force was divided into two columns, one to go to the river and the other to go to the mountains. The force that went to the river was the one that captured Aguinaldo. The force that went to the mountains was the one that captured the other officers of the force.

A. & S. STEEL TO HAVE REVENUE.

Also a Report That the Steel Company Has Acquired Control of Great Coal Properties.

It was reported in Wall Street yesterday, but the report could not be officially confirmed, that in addition to securing control of the properties of the Flat Top Coal Land Association for $17,000,000, the United States Steel Corporation had secured options on various other properties in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. These properties, according to the report, will be merged in a company to be known as the Pocahontas Coal Syndicate, capitalized at $20,000,000.

Wall Street news agency sent out this bulletin yesterday. There is good authority for stating that $20,000,000 has been underwritten for a new steel company to compete with the United States Steel in heavy work, and to manufacture armor plate. Strong interests are behind this project and 20 per cent. in cash has already been called up. A prominent international house has signed underwritten the project, and the project is now being actively pushed.
